

Hillary Challenges Google for Electronic Medical Records

Written by Dr. Hazem El-Oraby
Monday, 28 April 2008 02:33 -

In February 2007, Google CEO asked Hillary Clinton what Google could do to help her vision happen. Her answer started with electronic medical records and moving and bringing technology to health care. February 21, 2008, Google announced it will begin storing the medical records of a few thousand people as it tests a long-awaited health service. Real Solutions for Real Problems.

{youtube}GCJiwqYBzfU{/youtube}

URL = <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GCJiwqYBzfU>